

NEWSLETTER January 2015

Welcome to the first of many newsletters from Flameart in which we hope to bring you the latest news of our new products, techniques and styles.

Over the last few months I have been working on many new styles of Memorial Beads. The pictures show one in which I have literally 'stuffed' the clear glass bead with either ashes or hair. Although a long and laborious process, this technique offers give another option to my existing range – if you like this idea, please indicate on the order form the shape you want and circle the 'hollow option'. Beads with Hair or Fur inside can also be used as a Living Memorial Bead.

I have also been making Bracelet Memorial Beads, these fit Troll or Pandora style bracelets and have .925 sterling silver grommets included. Most colours or colour combinations are available.

For those who prefer an ornament instead of a wearable Memorial Bead, I am making glass Kiwis with ashes encased, (other small animals can be made to order ie: elephant, teddy bear, seal etc)

For the Memorial Glass Marble lovers, I can encase ashes into those as well. They come with a small clear glass display stand as shown.
